AND GENERAL ADVERTISER.

[VOL. XIX.—N° 1015.]

BY DANIEL BRADFORD, LEXINGTON.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 19, 1806.

TERMS OF THE GAZETTE.

THIS paper is published twice a week, at Three Dollars and a half per annum, paid in advance, or Four Dollars at the end of the year.

Those who write to the Editor, must pay the postage of their letters.

TAVERN, STORAGE & COMMISSION.

THE subscriber respectfully informs the public, that he has lately opened a house of ENTERTAINMENT in Maysville, (Limestone) at the sign of the SQUARE & COMPASS. The house is commodious, the stable extensive, and both are furnished with every thing necessary for the accommodation of travellers and others, who may think proper to favor him with a call. He is provided with a large and convenient WAREHOUSE, for the reception of goods, equal, if not superior to any in the place. He will also make SALES upon COMMISSION, for those who may have any thing to transact in that way, which will be done, together with the charges for storage, upon the most reduced terms. He flatters himself, that from the experience he has had in mercantile transactions, attention to business, and a desire to be useful, merit a part of the public patronage.

REMOVAL.

PORTER CLAR, CABINET AND CHAIR MAKER, HAS lately removed his Shop to his new brick house, which he has built for the purpose, on Bank Alley immediately back of the Bank, and fronting the house lately occupied by Mr. John Jones, and now by Mr. Pew—and where he has on hand a stock of stuff, equal to any in the State. FURNITURE of the newest and most elegant fashions, may be had on the shortest notice, executed in as neat a manner as any where in the United States. He flatters himself, that from the many sources of information which he has had in his line of business; the regular correspondence which he has kept with all the principal Cabinet Makers both in Philadelphia and New-York, that he will be able to give general satisfaction.

Lexington, Dec. 7, 1805.

MADNESS.

AN effectual remedy on the human body, for that dreadful malady the bite of mad animals—it being the remedy that Dr. Stov of Lebanon, of Pennsylvania, has effected to many cures with—A number of persons have been cured by Dr. Stov and myself, that had violent symptoms of the hydrophobia, from one 'til two days raging. The cure can be effected as long as the constituent part of the blood is not separated; which will happen sooner or later, according to the state of body, or the effect of the bite. I would advise every person to make application as soon as the person has received the infection. No trust can be expected for the above.

Michael Schaag.

Lexington, March 18th, 1805.

July 15--The Bashaw, his wives and guards removed to his country seat at his garden. The season warm and our confinement continued. We purchased figs, water-melons, musk-melons and cucumbers.

July 16--I was called to visit the Bashaw's oldest son, the Bey of Tripoli (termed the Prince Wales of Tripoli, by the English Consul) at his palace, about three miles from town. I found him in a lofty and airy apartment, lying on a matras, and surrounded by his attendants. I preferred for him and was highly entertained in the Turkish style. Saw two old women, said to have been a former Bashaw's wives.

July 19--The Bey was well enough to return to Tripoli. He called at the door of our prison, which was unlocked and the bolts and bars unloosed. I was conducted to him when he expressed great satisfaction at having recovered his health, thanked me for my attendance, and promised to alleviate our misfortunes as far as was in his power. I was then sent back to prison. The Bashaw spent a day alternately in town, on account of the expected attack by the Americans.

July 31--I was carried, with my trunk and bed, to the castle, where a room was provided for me, and the Bashaw informed me that I must attend the Americans and his family as a physician.

August 3--The American Squadron, under commodore Preble, consisting of one frigate (the Constitution), two brigs, three schooners and seven gun-boats, at about 2 o'clock P. M. commenced an attack on the batteries and gun-boats of Tripoli. I stood on the top of the castle, where I had a fair view of the engagement. Three of the enemy's gun-boats were captured by the Americans. Two Turks swam on shore, and were carried before the Bashaw, who gave them a suit of clothes and a few dollars. They said that many were killed on both sides.

August 5--The American Squadron anchored off Tripoli. I was ordered to dress the wound of a Mameluke, who had his hand shattered by the bursting of a blunderbuss. I amputated all his fingers but one with a dull knife, and dressed them in a bungling manner, in hopes of losing my credit as a surgeon in this part of the country, for I expected to have my hands full of wounded Turks in consequence of the exploits of my brave countrymen.

August 9--At about 12 o'clock the alarm gun of Tripoli was fired. The Tripolitans all took their stations, and went through the Mahometan prayer, by kneeling and kissing the ground several times, with their faces toward the east, all with as much regularity as the exercise of a well disciplined army. Their military maneuvering was a scene of the utmost confusion. I got permission to go on the top of the castle, where I had a most extensive view of the sea and land; and saw the American Squadron approaching the town.

At about 10 o'clock the attack commenced, and the battle soon became vigorous, with a tremendous cannonading on both sides. I now beheld the melancholy catastrophe of the explosion of one of our gun-boats. I saw the mangled bodies of my countrymen precipitated into the air. For a few moments a general silence took place, when the firing recommenced with unabated vigor. I saw the shells explode, and set fire to the town in many places; but the houses being principally built of stone, mud and mortar, the fire did but little damage. The shells and shot, however, battered the town very much, and almost destroyed some of the houses. The firing ceased at about 4 P. M. when the ship John Adams joined the squadron. The Bashaw has a bomb proof room in his castle, where he fled during the action. On hearing of the explosion of our gun-boat, he ventured out to take a peep, with the precaution of having a Marabewt or priest, to seal a small piece of paper on the top of his head, with a Turkish or Mahometan scrawl, with assurances that it would entirely secure him from all danger; but he soon returned to his cell. The Turks all wear a paper of this kind, sewed up in a little velvet bag, with assurances from the Marabewt that it will protect them in the greatest danger. The Marabewt gets a sum of money for these blessings. If a Turk gets wounded or killed, it is suppose the blessed paper was too old or not placed in a proper manner. In the time of action, the Marabewts get upon some secure place and cry to Mahomet in the most dismal yells to let them conquer their enemies; and beckon to the vessels to run on shore or be destroyed. Such of our crew as were able, were put to work, and drove about like horses or mules.

August 10--Lewis Hexmer, who lately turned Turk, went by order of the Bashaw and told Capt. Bainbridge, the particulars of the two late actions. The Bashaw informed me that the late commander of the schooner Vixen, Lieut. Smith, was commander of the gun-boat in the late action, and was killed by a musket shot through his head. Our men complained of being drove and beat about at an unmerciful rate, in consequence of which they petitioned the Bashaw, in the following terms:

To his Excellency the Grand Bashaw of Tripoli, The petition of the whole of the American prisoners most humbly sheweth,

That your humble petitioners, when doing with all their power, as they are commanded, are most cruelly beaten by our wardens, flogged, insulted, and spit upon by the soldiers and others; required to carry burthens impossible for us to sustain; and chained and bruised, until we are or soon shall be unable to labor at all.

For the many acts of justice, kindness and generosity we have experienced from your excellency, we cannot suppose that such conduct is authorized by your command: or that we should be punished for what is out of our power to perform; or the actions of others, which we have no agency in and which we cannot prevent.

Returning your excellency our sincere and humble thanks for your bounty and privileges heretofore shewn, and relying on your goodness for protection we therefore most humbly pray, that your excellency would interpose your royal authority and grant us a speedy relief. And your petitioners as in duty bound, will remain your excellency's most humble, faithful, and obedient servants.

On the petition being explained to the Bashaw by Hexmer (or Hamet American, his name) the Bashaw forbid the Turks striking the prisoners, August 11--The Bashaw sent for me and agreeably to his orders, I took a seat by his side. He began conversation about my country, & our Squadron, which was then in fight, and consisted of eighteen sail. He said for two dollars he could repair all the damages that the bombardment did to his town--that but one man was hurt by the shells--that what he had been offered for the American prisoners was about 5 dollars per man--that he would make them earn that sum in two months. He asked me what I thought my countrymen would give for me. I told him I did not know. He said he would not take twenty thousand dollars for me; to which I replied, I might then expect to remain in slavery for life. He patted me on the shoulder and said I must then content myself to stay with him. I asked to go and see our men, but he refused, saying the Moors and Arabs would kill me if they could catch me.

August 12--Our Squadron hoisted a flag of truce, sent in a brig and schooner, and fired a gun. The Bashaw did not and swore he would not answer it; and said he would not treat with commodore Preble. A truce, however, was afterwards held--Consul O'Brien, wished to come on shore, but was refused.

August 12--Another truce was held when the Bashaw demanded one million of dollars for our ransom. One hundred and twenty thousand dollars were offered and refused.

August 17--The Bashaw informed me that fifteen Americans were found drifted ashore to the westward of the town, and that one of them was an officer, with an epaulet on the right shoulder. We supposed they were men who had been destroyed by the explosion of the gun boat, in the engagement. I asked permission to go with two or three of our men and bury them, and the Bashaw told me I might go the next day. Our Squadron lay at anchor off the harbor. The inhabitants had chiefly moved out of the town, for fear of another bombardment; and the Bashaw ate, drank and slept in his bomb proof room. Several tribes of the back country inhabitants had lately come in and offered their services to the Bashaw--in all not more than one thousand men. Many of them had muskets without locks, but had a sort of match to put fire to them. They were almost naked, half starved and without discipline. When they are going to battle, or appear before the Bashaw, they run to and fro, shaking their rusty muskets over their heads, all crying Holco ut Buoy? (I am my father's son) every tribe has a priest, or what they call Marabewt, whose badge is a small green flag which is carried in his hand or stuck up at his tent. They pretend great skill in prophecy, in which the people put the utmost faith. They prophesy great success in battle; and for a small sum of money, ensure any man against wounds or death in fighting a Christian. They often get on eminences, and beckon and sing to the American vessels to run on shore. They prophesied that another American vessel was to go on the rocks, and the Bashaw fully believed it.

August 18--Was not permitted to bury our dead. Our Squadron stood out to sea. At evening the Bashaw went to his country seat, and the Bey came to keep the throne till his father's return. They never both leave the castle at once. When the Bashaw leaves it, the gates are shut until his return, for fear of incursions upon the throne. In the evening, the moon shining very bright, the prince or Bey ordered but the band of music, which was very ordinary, and made Christians, Turks Arabs and Guinea negroes, dance before him, according to the mode of their respective countries, at which he seemed highly diverted.

August 19--Between 9 and 10 o'clock in the evening, Mr. Church, a respectable English gentleman was shot through the head in the street, on his return from visiting his neighbors.

August 24--In the morning between 2 o'clock and daylight, two of our small vessels hove about thirty shells, as was supposed, for the round fort, but they all fell short of the mark. Such attempts served rather to encourage than to intimidate the Tripolitans; and the Bashaw was in high spirits on this occasion.

August 26--At about 4 o'clock P. M. the fellow who murdered Mr. C. was executed near the spot where the crime was committed. It heretofore had been a custom in this country, where a person had committed murder, to fly to the tomb of a Marabewt (or priest) where they were protected from justice, and a fee to a Marabewt would procure them absolution. The fellow fled to a place of this kind immediately after killing Mr. Church. The English Consul Mr. Langford, on being informed of this murder, addressed the Bashaw and demanded justice. The Bashaw then found out by a boy who accompanied the murderer when he committed the crime, the particulars of the affair; and immediately sent a file of men and ordered them to prevent any person from carrying food or drink to the murderer. They watched him until night, when the Bashaw sent his Marabewt who coaxed him away, brought him to the castle and confined him in irons. The next day the Bashaw called his divan, when it was decided that the prisoner was guilty of wilful murder, and ought to suffer death. It appeared by the evidence and confession of the prisoner, that Mr. Church had lent a sum of money to a Spanish carpenter in this place; that Mr. Church had pressed him for payment; and that the carpenter's wife hired the Turk to kill Mr. Church for forty dollars. The villain took his watch from his pocket after he had shot him. The boy who had accompanied him, and carried a lantern, was baffled with 500 blows. The carpenter's wife was ordered to leave Tripoli.

DOVER, November 23.

"Arrived in the Roads this morning the Lord Keith cutter from off Boulogne; the left our Squadron last night. I hear by her that on Thursday night, some shells and rockets were thrown at the line of gun-brigs outside of Boulogne harbour, but without doing much damage to them; they have each a cable leading to the shore, and can be hauled on the main, should an attempt be made to board them.

"Owing to the unfavorable wind that has prevailed ever since Sir S. Smith's Squadron failed from hence, a regular attack could not be made, and I suppose will not now be attempted, at least for some time to come, as the ships this morning quitted Boulogne Roads, and are now standing over for this coast--I am informed that out of the ten launches which went away from here with the fleet, only four are come back, as the gun-brigs which had the remainder in tow were obliged to cut them adrift, being unable to work out of Boulogne Bay with them astern, the wind being right on the shore, and a heavy sea setting in. Sir Sidney Smith's new invented double boat, called the Cancer, received so much damage along side of the ships, as to render her unserviceable.

November 24.

"Arrived in the roads from the French coast, the Pearls, Manly, and Firm gun brigs; also the Sceptre armed ship. Sir Sidney Smith's Squadron has come into the Downs."

The Heckley has towed into the Downs the Sagittarius, which he picked up on the night of the 21st instant off Boulogne full of water. She was prevented from sinking, and the crew saved by Sir Sidney Smith's plan of lining with cork in imitation of the life boats.

Another letter, same date.

"Never was expectation more alive to success--never were arrangements better calculated to ensure it, than in our Squadron on Thursday last; that evening being destined for the grand attack. A finer day for preparation could not have shown; the sea was smooth as glass; the wind in the very quarter that was most to be desired, blowing a gentle breeze from E N E. At 10 o'clock the gun brigs and rocket launches in tow, stood to the northward, and anchored a breast of Ambletouse, just at full range, it having been determined that they should run down along the enemy's line, lying in the road, at night fall, with the last of the ebb. By half past four, P M every thing was completely arranged on board the gun brigs and rocket launches, under the immediate inspection of Mr. Congreve, who is the inventor of this new system of bombardment, as it may fairly be called--Upwards of a thousand shell and carcass rockets were fixed in the frames, from which they were to be fired in volleys; the shell rockets, at a lower angle intended to be poured into the French brigs at anchor--the carcass rockets, each carrying as much carcass composition as is fired at a round by an eight inch mortar at five of elevation, were to be reserved for throwing into the basin. The trains were laid that were destined to pour them by hundreds in a volley to the devoted vessels of the enemy. About eight o'clock, the Admiral went over the side of the Antelope to move his flag on board the Diligence sloop of war, in which vessel, as the draws but little water, and is armed with ten twenty four pounders on a slide the gallant Sir Sidney meant to lead the attack in person. Never was more arduous and enthusiastic displayed than at that moment by all ranks. More than a hundred armed boats followed the Admiral to the Diligence cheering him with reiterated demonstrations of their ardour for the contest; which though every one felt must have been successful, yet every one knew must be dearly purchased; feeling that the enemy were fully aware of our meditating the attack for that night, and had been heating his furnaces for red hot shot, not only from one end of the bay to the other, but even on board every one of the gun brigs.

"The evening was still, everything that could have been wished, and a little after eight the sign was made for the bomb ships to open on the bay as the prelude to the attack; the effect was truly sublime and every heart now beat with accumulated hope. The Admiral's flag was now flying on board the Diligence, the signal was made for the gun-brigs to lead in, and they were actually under way, headed by the Admiral himself. All was yet well; but scarcely was the line under way, for really was the first volley of rockets discharged, when on a sudden the wind shifted round to the N W and in an instant blew a gale. Every one who has been at Boulogne bay knows what must have been the immediate consequence; from the smoothest surface the most agitated surf came tumbling upon us. The largest vessels of the Squadron were in imminent danger of going ashore, and the smaller ones were rolling gun-wale to. Victory was in a moment snatched from our grasp. The Admiral was most reluctantly compelled to annul the signals of attack--the bombardment ceased--such of our ships as were under weigh were with difficulty towed off the shore, many that were not were compelled to slip their cables. The confusion became general--false fires were burning in all directions, the armed boats were hurrying back to the vessels, many of them constrained to take shelter in the first ship they could make. In a shift of wind so unexpected and so violent, it is not difficult to conceive the damage that has been sustained in the smaller craft and in the apparatus belonging to them. What the extent of it is, we are yet ignorant as the gale increasing in the night, and blowing hard all day yesterday, the Squadron is yet dispersed. Three of the launches, however, are known to have gone down, but without the loss of any lives. It is but too much to be feared, that so much damage has been received, that the operation cannot be renewed on the same scale this year. On good effect, however, has resulted: that every man in the Squadron, and every one of the enemy too it is believed, who witnessed the commencement of the attack, is satisfied that the destruction of Boulogne may yet be accomplished, when the elements are not against us."

LEXINGTON, FEBRUARY 19.

AGREEABLY to the proposition in this paper of the 6th instant, the Kentucky Gazette is now published every Wednesday and Saturday. The advantages attending this alteration must be obvious to every person who has been in the habit of reading the Kentucky papers. Although every printer may have done his duty towards his readers—although he may have given the most important articles of information,—yet the limits of a weekly paper will not permit that information to be given in such detail as to be satisfactory. An instance may illustrate this.—We are told in all our papers, that Bonaparte has taken Vienna. Now who can say by what means he arrived at that city? An immense army, commanded by Bonaparte, must have produced in its passage through Germany, many important events, highly interesting to the enquiring reader; yet those events have hitherto been unknown to the people of Kentucky, unless they have been acquired from the Atlantic prints. Again—Although the combined fleets were completely defeated by Lord Nelson, and nineteen sail taken; yet, we are told, that not one of them was carried into port. Now, who does not wish to know the fate of each individual vessel? But a more important consideration yet remains.—It might be asked of any individual who had exclusively read the Kentucky papers, what business was transacting in our national councils? What reply could he make?

These are inconveniences of a most important nature to our citizens,—to remedy which, the Editor of the Kentucky Gazette has proposed the alteration before mentioned.

The price of the paper will be $3.50 per annum paid in advance, or $4 to be paid at the expiration of the year.

An addition of $1 from those who have paid in advance for the present year, will entitle them to the Gazette until the end of the year.

As this arrangement will be attended with considerable additional expense, the Editor earnestly requests all those in arrears, to make immediate payment.

Married, on Wednesday evening last, Mr. John Bell, to Miss Rachael Stout, both of this town.

On Tuesday the 11th instant, the following vessels passed the Falls of Ohio, and were safely moored opposite Shippingport:—

The Western Trader, Capt. McCutchan, 420 tons burthen, James Berthoud owner, built at Pittsburgh.

The General Scott, W. Fletcher Master, 260 tons burthen, built on the Kentucky by John Jordan jun. now owned by John Jordan jun. and Hart & Barlett.

The brig Perseverance, built at Marietta.

Extract of a letter from B. Thrusion Esq. Senator in Congress, to his correspondent in Lexington, dated January 21.

"A Bill to interdict our intercourse with St. Domingo, is now before the Senate. Warm remonstrances are made by the Minister of France, on the invasion of her colonial rights, by the merchants of the United States, in supplying that rebellious colony with arms and ammunition, &c. I think we shall, by the passage of the bill, remove this cause of complaint. I have some faint hopes that an amicable adjustment of territorial limits with Spain, and perhaps an extension of our national jurisdiction over all the country east of the Mississippi, will be an event not very distant.

"I enclose you a copy of a bill now before us, which is introduced by Mr. Wright, of Maryland, a warm republican, as you see. Although some energetic measures are contemplated on the subject matter of the bill, I presume it will hardly pass in its present shape, as it might be reasonably expected to be followed by a formal declaration of war. The fact is, we hardly know what to do with that imperious, domineering British nation. We are eternally complaining of her arbitrary conduct, and infractions of the laws of nations, and still we take no decisive measures against her. The present session will hardly pass without something being done on this subject. Mr. Madison has published a very sensible pamphlet (too large to be enclosed) vindicating our neutral right, and exposing the unjust and lawless conduct of Britain, in relation to our commerce. You will have heard before you receive this, that Bonaparte is in Vienna, and the Imperial family fled to Hungary."

[In Senate of the United States.]

January 20, 1806.
Agreeably to notice given on 16th instant, Mr. Wright asked and obtained leave to bring in the following bill, which was read and passed to a second reading.

A BILL,
For the protection and indemnification of American seamen.

Whereas, by the treaty of amity, commerce and navigation, made between his Britannic Majesty and the United States at London, on the nineteenth day of November, one thousand seven hundred and ninety-four, by the first article of said treaty, it is agreed, "That there shall be a firm, inviolable and universal peace, and a true and sincere friendship between his Britannic Majesty his heirs and successors, and the United States of America; and between their respective countries, territories, cities, towns, and people of every degree, without exception of persons or places. And whereas, in direct violation of said treaty, his Britannic Majesty has caused to be impressed out of the ships of the United States, sailing on the high seas, divers citizens of said United States; and has compelled them to serve on board the ships of war of his said Britannic Majesty, in violation of their liberty, and at the hazard of their lives; and in despite of the remonstrances of the government of the United States, continues said unjust practice; and the seamen of the United States so impressed, by force, retains in his service. And whereas, the United States are solemnly bound to protect all those who are bound in allegiance to said United States. Therefore,

Be it enacted, by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America, in Congress assembled, That from and after the day of next, any person or persons, who shall impress any seamen on board any vessel bearing the flag of the United States, upon the high seas, or in any river, haven, bason or bay, under pretext or color of a commission from any foreign power, shall for every such offence be adjudged a pirate and felon; and on conviction shall suffer death. And the trial in any such case may be had where the offender is apprehended or may be first brought.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That it shall be lawful for any American seaman, sailing under the flag of the United States, on any person or persons attempting to impress him by force, from on board any vessel of the United States, upon the high seas, or in any river, haven, bason or bay, to repel such force by shooting, or otherwise killing and destroying the person or persons so attempting to impress him, and shall, as an encouragement to resist, be entitled to a bounty of two hundred dollars, to be paid to him, or his order, or legal representatives, out of any money in the treasury, not otherwise appropriated.

Sec. 3. And be it further enacted, That on information being given to the President of the United States, providing satisfactorily to him, that any citizen of the United States, who shall have been impressed or forced by violence or threats, to enter on board any foreign vessel, shall suffer death, or any other corporal punishment by the authority of such foreign power; it shall be lawful for the President of the United States, to cause the most rigorous and exact retaliation on any subjects of that government, whom he is hereby authorized to seize and take for that purpose.

Sec. 4. And be it further enacted, That every American seaman, heretofore or hereafter impressed and compelled to serve on board any foreign ship or vessel, shall be entitled to receive as an indemnification for his slavery and hardships on board the ship in which he has been, or shall be compelled to serve, from the day of his impressment, the sum of sixty dollars per month, for every month he has, or shall serve, on board said ship or ships; and that the said seaman, his heirs, executors, administrators, or assigns, shall be entitled to recover the same in the district court of the state in which the port lies, from which the vessel cleared, for the voyage in which he was taken, by attachment of any private debt, due from any citizen of the United States, to any subject of that government, by whose subjects he has been impressed; and that any sums of money so attached out of the hands of any debtor, shall be payment of so much of said debt, and may be pleaded in payment or discount to the amount of the said sums so attached, and all the costs of said attachment, which shall be allowed as a payment of that amount in any suit for said debt. And that so much of the treaty of London, of nineteenth of November, one thousand seven hundred and ninety-four, as secures the inviolability of such debts, as will be infringed by the attachments or recoveries, hereby authorized, shall not (so far as is necessary in the execution of this act only) be regarded as legally obligatory on the government or citizens of the United States.

Extract of a letter from the Hon. Thomas Sandford, to his friend in this place, dated Congress Hall; January 16th, 1806.

"Dear sir,
"YOUR favor of the 25th ultimo, is this moment handed to me—accept my thanks for your information relative to the proceedings of our general assembly—they were timely. Not a paper has reached me from Frankfort since the sixth of December. I was consequently not informed of the measures which occupied their attention until I heard them from you.

"A motion was made in our house, to close the doors on a confidential message of the President on the second instant, from which time until the present hour, we have been in convulsion. A bill has passed this morning, and is ordered to the Senate, with a request that they consider the subject a confidential one. The shutting of our doors for so great a length of time, has given rise, I am informed, to various reports as to the objects of the nation, nor can it be wondered at, at a time when many of us expect from the President's message, that the nation may be involved in war. I presume it will not be expected that I shall detail the measures on which we have been occupied, suffice it to say, that our confidential fittings have had an entire relation to our affairs with Spain; and that I hope the measures which have proceeded from those private legislative proceedings, will secure to the nation not only peace at the present moment, but will place us in such a situation as will relieve us in future from just ground of misunderstanding with the government of his Catholic Majesty.

"During the debates which have passed in convulsion, I think I may confidently say that we shall disagree to a report of a committee of our house, made some time ago, in favor of building six 74 gun ships. I have now every reason to believe that there is a majority of our house determined to preserve peace with every European nation with whom we have commercial relations. The success of the French on the continent, and the almost total annihilation of the combined fleets at sea, further justify such a belief."

A letter from Havana, of the 26th ult. (received at New-York) says:—"The celebrated General BOWLES died three days since in the Minor Castle, reduced to skin and bones. He had for more than 40 days previous refused to eat any thing but oranges uncut; those he cut and sucked—and we have reason to believe that he had strong reasons for what he did."

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN
TO all persons, that there is a mistake in the Mortgage I obtained from Samuel Jamison of Cynthiana, for his houses and lots; the Mortgage mentions Lot No. 25, whereas it ought to have been parts of Lots No. 14 & 15. These are therefore to forewarn all persons from purchasing his claim either in law or equity, to any part of said Lots, as the mortgage secures them to me, by mentioning the place where he lived, and where his houses and stables are situated, and No. 25 must have been inserted either from mistake or fraud.

CLARKE COUNTY.
THIS day James Symphon Jailor of Clarke county, came before me Thomas Scott, a Justice of the Peace for the County aforesaid, and made oath, that James Davis, who was committed to the jail of this county on a charge of horse stealing, did on the night of the 7th of this month make his escape from said jail by burning of it, and is now going at large.

These are therefore in the name of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, to require and command all Sheriffs and Constables in their respective counties and precincts, to retake the said James Davis, and him safely convey to the county aforesaid, and there deliver him to some proper officer, that he may be dealt with as the law directs. Given under my hand and seal, this 8th day of February 1806.
Thomas Scott. (Seal.)

The above James Davis's parents live in Bourbon county; he is about 18 years of age, 5 feet 10 or 11 inches high, slender made, thin visaged, fair hair, a boyish look with no beard, but a number of small pimples on his face; had on when he escaped, country made woollen clothes not full of, of a pale blue color, his great coat of the same color, home made and half twilled—it is likely his clothes are burnt or scorched as he escaped through the fire.

CHARLESTON, Jan. 10.
Charles Pinckney esq. late minister plenipotentiary from the United States to the court of Madrid, came passenger in the Henricus IV, from Lisbon. The reports, by the arrival of the Henricus IV, from Lisbon, are, that the court of Spain is more favorably disposed towards the United States; that they had agreed to make compensation for spoliations committed by the own subjects; but would not consent to pay for those made by French citizens in Spanish ports.—Admiral Gravin's was only slightly wounded in the late action, and is not dead.—The king of Prussia had joined the coalition.—The French troops were reported to have made 12,000 prisoners shortly after the fall of Ulm.

A few days before capt. Harvey sailed, intelligence reached Cape Francois, that three Italian vessels, two ships and a brig, which had sailed from Italy, for Carthagea, on the Spanish Main, having in expectation of making a great voyage, entered the port of Aux Cayes, the crews were immediately arrested, by order of Desallines, and thrown into prison: they were afterwards tried, condemned, and all of them executed, on the ground that Bonaparte being the king of Italy, was their sovereign, and they must consequently suffer as his subjects.
(Courier.)

NASSAU, (N. P.) Jan. 1.
Extracts from the journal kept by captain REILL, of the brig Eliza and Mary.

Sailed from New-York, the 16th of September, and arrived at Teneriffe the 5th Nov. where he learnt the following intelligence. That the Rochefort Squadron, consisting of 5 sail of the line, 3 frigates, and a brig of war, with the Calcutta English 50 gun ship, and 6 English merchant ships, prizes to the squadron, had arrived at Santa Cruz on the 3d ult. which caused an embargo to be laid on all vessels directly, which was to continue while the squadron was in port. They had sunk several English ships that had very valuable cargoes, on account of their bad sailing, not being able to keep up with the Squadron— that they had uniformly sunk or burnt all neutral vessels they fell in with at sea, that were either bound to or along the coast of Europe, to prevent intelligence getting to the English fleets— that they had taken out their crews, and told them they must go with them to France, and should be paid by the government, the full amount, with damages, &c. that among the neutrals are the following American vessels, viz. brig Minerva, Salter, New-York, brig Two Friends, Fenwick, of Charleston, with valuable cargoes, were both burned; schooner—Tucker, of Bolton; schooner—Sergeant, of do. The number of neutral vessels, taken and destroyed by the squadron, amounted to 26, the captains of which, during the day, were allowed the liberty of going on shore, but the same privilege was not extended to their officers or crew. The commander in chief, Mons. Le Almine, had taken all their papers, and given to each a certificate, stating he had destroyed their vessels and cargoes; and that they must apply to the minister at Paris for remuneration.

"TO SOAR ALOFT ON FANCY'S WING."

The following is an Excellent Quiz upon the affected minute, and vulgar style, so much in vogue among the modern bards.

By the side of a murmuring stream,
As an Elderly Gentleman sat,
On the top of his head was his Wig,
And a top of his Wig was his Hat.

The wind it blew high and blew strong,
As the elderly Gentleman sat,
And bore from his head in a trice,
And plunged in the river his Hat.

The Gentleman then took his Cane,
Which lay by his side as he sat,
And he dropt in the river his Wig
In attempting to get out his Hat.

His breast it grew cold with despair,
And full in his eye madness sat,
So he flung in the river his Cane,
To swim with his Wig and his Hat.

A BARGAIN,
By which the purchaser may make a fortune more speedily, than by any other one offered in the state.

I will sell the Tavern TRAVELLERS' HALL,
Which occupies, with or without the furniture and stock of liquors, for part Cash, part Store Goods, Negroes, or Country Produce, paid down; the balance in eight annual payments, with interest from the date; or in four annual payments of half Cash, and half approved produce, with interest from the date.

The situation, convenience, elegance and custom of Travellers' Hall, are well known to be unequalled by any Tavern in the Western Country, and by very few in the Union.
If this property be not sold before the 10 April next, I shall not dispose of it after ward at least, for several years.

R. Bradley.

Taken up by Alexander Willson, on the waters of a blundering, in Montgomery county, 6 miles from Mount Sterling, One Sorrel Mare, three years old last spring, about 14 hands high, a small blaze in the face, no brands or marks, appraised to 161. 165.

100 DOLLARS REWARD.

RAN away from the subscriber, living near Greenville, Jefferson county, Mississippi Territory, a Negro Man, named whom the subscriber purchased from Thomas B. Scott and Robert Scott of Jessamine county, Kentucky. He is a well made black fellow, about 24 years of age, about 5 feet 8 or 9 inches high, he stoops a little in his shoulders and has a soft squeaking voice. He made his first escape in September or October 1803, and was taken up in Robertson county, state of Tennessee, the 21st of July, 1804, where he remained until March 1805, at which time, Robert Childress, took him on board his boat, to convey him to his owner, and brought him near the mouth of Bayan Pierre creek, where he again made his escape. His clothing at that time is not known to the subscriber. I will give the above reward to any person who will apprehend said negro out of the limits of this Territory, and will deliver him to me at my house, or Twenty Dollars for securing him in any jail, and giving me information thereof, so that I get him again; or Twenty Dollars to any person who will apprehend said negro within this Territory, and will deliver him to me at my plantation.
Thomas M. Green.
May 19th, 1805.

FOR SALE,
THE place whereon I now live, on 450 acres, lying on David's Fork of Elkhorn, with good improvements; about 140 acres of open land, the dwelling house is of Brick, two stories 22 feet wide and 46 feet long, two GRIST MILLS in good repair, and grind very fast, one pair of stones are French burr; the springs and stock of water was never known to fail. I will sell the whole together, and give an extensive credit on one fourth being paid down, or I will sell 100 acres with the mills and distillery on it, and give a considerable credit on one third being paid down. It is generally counted a very handsome place—it is needless to mention further particulars, as any person wishing to buy, can view the premises.
John Rogers.

REMOVAL.
LAWSON M'GULLOUGH,
TAILOR,
HAS removed his Shop from High-street, to a new framed house on Main and Mill-street, adjoining Mr. Lewis Sanders, and nearly opposite Mr. Thos. Hart's Store. Those Gentlemen who may please to favor him with their custom, may depend on having their work done with dispatch and punctuality, and in the neatest and newest fashion.—He has for the accommodation of his friends and customers, (and a little for himself) laid in a general assortment of the most suitable trimmings for cloaths, and a few pieces of genuine Constitution Cord and Indian Nankeens, all of which will be sold on the most reasonable terms. Be so kind Gentlemen as to call in and judge for yourselves.
I am the public's humble servt.
Lawson M'Gullough

Lexington, Dec. 2d, 1805.

Man's Lick Salt Works.
To be rented for a term of years, all the interest of the representatives of John Todd, dec. in the Man's Lick Salt Works, in Jefferson county, Kentucky. The superior quality of the water, and the advantages this Lick possesses over any other in the state, are so well known, it needs no recommendation. Proposals in writing will be received by Thomas Bodley, John Jordan, and Thomas Irwin, in Lexington, until the second Monday in March next; and if no contract should be made before that day, it will then be rented to the highest bidder.
Lexington, Jan. 31st, 1806.

F. Downing & Co.
TAKE this method of informing their friends and the public at large, that they continue the
HOUSE & SIGN PAINTING BUSINESS,
in all its branches: Papering, and decorating apartments in the most finished style. They undertake likewise Gilding and japanning—Old waiters &c. japanned anew. They have added to the above mentioned branches, that of making new, and repairing old Looking Glasses. They have received an elegant assortment of Gilt Borders, for pictures or looking glass frames.—They continue to take shaded and cut profile likenesses with the physiognotrace, at their shop, opposite to Mr. Pope's office; where for the use of persons living at a remote distance, will be found, all sorts of paints, ready ground, and fit for immediate use, on the shortest notice, together with new brushes. All such persons by giving the subscribers the dimensions of what they desire to be painted, may be accommodated with a sufficient quantity of paint. They have also, always on hand, a quantity of PUTTY.

Three or four APPRENTICES to the above business, coming well recommended, will meet with encouragement.
